The Lights of Iraq: Electricity Usage and the Iraqi War-fare Regime

[2018]

https://mpra.ub.uni-muenchen.de/88264/1/MPRA_paper_88264.pdf

Cerami, Alfio (2018), The Lights of Iraq: Electricity Usage and the Iraqi War-fare Regime, MPRA Paper No. 88264, University Library of Munich, Germany. https://mpra.ub.uni-muenchen.de/88264/1/MPRA_paper_88264.pdf

This article explores the lights of Iraq, Iraq's variety of capitalism (VoC) and its system of public and fiscal governance. The first section examines Iraq's VoC, which I define oil-led state-captured capitalism with associated oil-led state-captured war-fare regime. In formerly ISIS-occupied territories, war developments turned the system into an Insurgent ISIS-captured capitalism with associated Insurgent ISIS-captured war-fare regime. The second section investigates electricity usage. The nighttime lights analysis is based on near real-time big data. It includes high-resolution remote-sensing and satellite imagery from the NASA Earth Observatory. I use the Visible Infrared Imaging Radiometer Suite (VIIRS) sensor on the Suomi NPP satellite. Data on greenhouse gases are obtained through the AQUA and TERRA satellites derived from the Atmospheric Infrared Sounder (AIRS) and Moderate-resolution Imaging Spectroradiometer (MODIS) sensors. I also use the AURA satellite with the Ozone Monitoring Instrument (OMI) sensor, as well as the TERRA satellite with the Measurements of Pollution in the Troposphere (MOPITT) sensor. The third part examines the repercussions of electricity usage for good governance, for good regulatory and good fiscal practices, as well as for development and growth. The concluding part briefly discusses the "taxman approach" and the introduction of a new fiscal contract necessary to resolve negative incentives in oil-led war economies.

The Night Lights of North Korea. Prosperity Shining and Public Policy Governance

https://mpra.ub.uni-muenchen.de/87281/1/MPRA_paper_87281.pdf

Cerami, Alfio (2018), The Night Lights of North Korea. Prosperity Shining and Public Policy Governance. MPRA Paper No. 87281, University Library of Munich, Germany. https://mpra.ub.uni-muenchen.de/87281/1/MPRA_paper_87281.pdf

This article looks into the night lights of North Korea and their relationship to prosperity shining. The first introductory section discusses the political economy of North Korea. It highlights its strengths and shortcomings. The second section introduces to new methods of geo-spatial micro and macro econometric analysis. The following night lights analysis is based on near real-time big data. It includes high-resolution remote-sensing and satellite imagery from the NASA (Earth Observatory) Visible Infrared Imaging Radiometer Suite (VIIRS) sensor on the Suomi NPP satellite. The third and fourth section addresses important issues related to North Korea's prices, co-optation and mobilization of anger. The final section deal with problems in public policy administration.

Complexity Theory, Democratic Transition and Public Policy Choices in Iraq

https://mpra.ub.uni-muenchen.de/92382/1/MPRA_paper_92382.pdf

Cerami, Alfio (2019), Complexity Theory, Democratic Transition and Public Policy Choices in Iraq, MPRA Paper No. 92382, University Library of Munich, Germany. https://mpra.ub.uni-muenchen.de/92382/1/MPRA_paper_92382.pdf

This article adopts Complexity Theory to improve understanding of Iraq's future patterns of democratic stabilization and consolidation. It emphasizes the importance of soft technologies, as well as hard technologies for making better public policy choices. The article also sheds light on Iraq's institutional evolution, on its processes and mechanisms of variation and replication. It emphasizes the importance of new culturally-sensitive public policies and political economies. The first part of the article briefly describes the main political, economic, social and cultural changes in Iraq since the fall of the Saddam regime. The second part discusses the system of social security in Iraq and in formerly ISIS controlled territories. The final section deals with important challenges of de-radicalization necessary that are necessary for the democratization, liberalization, institutionalization and consolidation of new institutions. A new spatial politics of public policy making in formerly ISIS-occupied territories is also discussed in the concluding section
